

Wondering about a Career in Museums & Non-Profits?

Join us for an informational series of Zoom meetings where you can speak directly with an expert from the Natural History Museum of Utah

Choose from eleven qualified professionals who will discuss exciting careers available today in museums and non-profits.

Group space is limited, sign up today!
Email Liz lbaldwin@nhmu.utah.edu

Alyson Wilkins, Collections & Digitization Coordinator

Tuesday, September 17
12:15 – 1 p.m.

Alyson Wilkins has worked at NHMU for one year and is interested in scientific imaging and digital data sharing. Digitization is a cross-disciplinary collections role at the Museum.

Chris Eisenberg, Deputy Director & Director of Philanthropy & Communications

Wednesday, September 23
11:45 a.m. – 12:30 p.m.

Chris Eisenberg began his career at the Museum in 2006 helping to run the capital campaign for the Museum's new home, the Rio Tinto Center. He is passionate about the team at NHMU and believes the only thing more impressive than its award-winning exhibitions and jaw-dropping architecture, is the awesome staff. His work includes administrative, fundraising, and public engagement roles.

Sarah Allen, Community Outreach Manager

Monday, September 28
11:45 a.m. – 12:30 p.m.

Sarah Allen has worked at NHMU for three years in outreach and started as an anthropology lab intern 10 years ago. She is interested in art and culture and its connection to the natural world. Community Outreach is a cross-disciplinary public engagement and education role at the Museum that works with communities statewide.

Christy Bills, Entomology & Malacology Collections Manager

Wednesday, October 7
6:30 – 7:15 p.m.

Christy Bills has worked at NHMU for 22 years and is interested in local invertebrates, science communication, museum management of insects, community science and intermountain west fireflies. Entomology and Malacology are collections roles at the Museum.

Randy Irmis, Chief Curator
& Curator of Paleontology

Thursday, October 8
12:15 – 1 p.m.

Randy Irmis is the Chief Curator and Curator of Paleontology at NHMU (as well as a faculty member on campus). He has worked at NHMU for over 11.5 years and is interested in everything natural history and museum related, but particularly how animals and their environments change over deep time. Paleontology Curator is a collections & research role and Chief Curator is a cross-disciplinary administrative role at the Museum.

Tracey Collins, Interim
Director of Education &
Community Engagement

Monday, October 19
11:45 a.m. – 12:30 p.m.

Tracey Collins has worked at NHMU for seven years and for the University of Utah for 12 years. Her background is in museum education and educational leadership with a special focus on educational equity, informal learning, object-based learning, and educational technology.

Annie Young, Education Program Specialist for the Field Trip Program

Monday, October 26
4:45 p.m. – 5:30 p.m.

Annie Young has worked at NHMU for three years and is interested in creating memorable and valuable experiences for students as well as improving the teacher experience with NHMU's data systems. An Education Program Specialist is an education and public engagement role at the Museum.

Allison Izaksonas, Herbarium Collections Manager

Thursday, October 29
12:15 – 1 p.m.

Allison Izaksonas has worked at NHMU for one year and is interested in the botanical diversity of Utah and beyond. The Herbarium houses NHMU's collection of plants and fungi. It is a collections role at the Museum.

Carrie Levitt-Bussian, Paleontology Collections Manager

Friday, November 6
11:45 a.m. – 12:30 p.m.

Carrie Levitt-Bussian has worked at NHMU for seven years and is interested in ceratopsian limb bone histology studying how animals, like triceratops, grew and what their metabolism was like when they were alive. Paleontology Collections Manager is a collections role at the Museum.

Tony Millet,
Chief Financial Officer

Tuesday, November 10
12:15 – 1 p.m.

Tony Millet has worked at NHMU for 17.5 years and is interested in how business and non-profit management intersect. The Chief Financial Officer is a business administration role at the Museum.

Madlyn Larson, Director of Education Initiatives

Tuesday, November 17
12:15 – 1 p.m.

Madlyn Larson has worked at NHMU for almost 13 years and is interested in partnerships and projects that empower people, particularly young people, through high quality learning experiences. Education Initiatives is a cross disciplinary education and administrative role at the Museum.

NATURAL HISTORY MUSEUM OF UTAH

Rio Tinto Center | University of Utah